WISCONSIN HUMANITIES COUNCIL

Strengthening Wisconsin's roots
Enriching lives today
Ensuring a vital future for everyone in Wisconsin

THE PERSONAL EXPERIENCE:

“Everyone has said something bad about someone and in a way, it’s human nature to judge. However, it’s stuff like this that tears us apart! I will share your story, even when I wish to forget.”

- Student from Superior who attended WHC-funded visit with a Holocaust survivor and author
THE PERSONAL EXPERIENCE:

“They make Shakespeare accessible to everyone, not just by giving free performances, but by making it family friendly. Bring your kids to the workshop – they are well worth it!”

Summit Players Theatre held workshops and performances at Rib Mountain State Park and Copper Falls State Park

A LASTING IMPACT

Heritage Days history and culture event at the Wisconsin Concrete Park in Phillips was born 2012, with financial and scholarly support from the WHC. Today the annual event for school children and families is two days of craft demonstrations, folk music performances, and hands-on learning about local history, traditional folk arts and lifeways of the people who made the region home. The WHC has continued to support the local educators and historians who make the event possible.

We believe that our problems have solutions. The Beyond the Headlines initiative brought citizens and journalists together to talk face-to-face, sharing knowledge and confronting urgent local issues. In Wausau, citizens met with local law enforcement and journalists to talk about coverage of law enforcement. Loss of local media make Douglas County, and the city of Superior, a 'news desert.' Citizens are joining experts to find solutions.
